CALIFORNIA SUFFERING

Coldest Weather in Forty Years Does Damage to Citrus Country—Chicago Reports Suffering.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 7.—Thirty degrees below zero at Miles City, Mont., this morning formed the climax of the cold throughout the west extending southward to the Gulf States.

The northeastern part of the country has temporary protection by the development of an area of high pressure over the Atlantic near the coast, but this territory, according to the weather forecasters, gradually will feel the cold before the week is over.

Southern California is experiencing the coldest weather in forty years. The temperature at San Diego was 28 early today, a record breaker for that point. At Pueblo, Colo., it was 22 degrees below; at Denver 18 below; Salt Lake City 2 below; Cheyenne 21 below; Minneapolis, Manitoba 35 below; El Paso, Texas 6 above.

At Omaha it was zero; St. Louis 22 above; Fort Worth 14; San Antonio 20; Kansas City, Mo. 6; Chicago 23; Nashville 55; New Orleans 68.

In Chicago, Chicago's first heavy snow storm of the winter drove hundreds of homeless wanderers to police stations for shelter and the charity organizations were over-run with applications for relief. Street cars were blocked in different parts of the city and incoming trains were from one to three hours late. A number of minor accidents were reported as a result of the snow and ice. The temperature remained about 30. Several inches of snow fell.

In California, Los Angeles, Jan. 7.—Temperatures from 4 to 6 degrees lower than Sunday were recorded last night, blighting the hopes of orange and lemon growers. It was admitted to citrus fruit losses would be extremely heavy. Estimates of damage ran from ten to thirty million dollars.

Railroad freight losses figured in terms of shipment it is estimated the 1912 crop of oranges and lemons will be from ten to twenty thousand carloads short.

Last year's crop netted growers $35,000,000. Eleven millions went to the railroads in freight and refrigerator charges. At the beginning of the season this year's crop value was estimated at $50,000,000 and according to heads of various fruit associations and firms the damage done by the present two days' freeze will amount perhaps to half of the entire crop.

Actual losses to both growers and railroads, however, will be dependent to a certain extent upon the attitude of the government toward the shipment of slightly damaged fruit.

Several persons have been killed at the same spot within the last two years. The storm of last week was one of the worst ever seen in this district.

CHARGE VIOLATION CHILD LABOR LAWS

Marshfield Company Made Defendant in Suit Brought by State in Which 62 Violations Are Charged.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 7.—A second notable action under the Child Labor laws was instituted by the state today against the Roddis Lumber and Veneer company of Marshfield. The complaint was sent to District Attorney Charles E. Briere by the attorney general today for service on the company at Marshfield. The action is identical with that now pending against the Diamond Match company of Oshkosh for alleged violation of the Child Labor act.

Sixty-one Violations. The new suit enumerates sixty-one specific violations of the Child Labor act and asks for judgment for $6,100, together with costs and disbursements. This will mean, of course, a total based upon the maximum fines of $100 for each offense. The law fixes such fine at from $25 to $100 for each offense. Like the Diamond Match suit, the suit against the Roddis company is an action in debt for payment of fines for violations alleged to have occurred during the last few months.

While the suit against the Roddis company is instituted by the attorney general, Assistant Attorney General Russell Jackson having drawn up the complaint, it is based upon an exhaustive investigation made by a deputy for the Industrial Commission. The deputy's report is said to contain many more times the number of specific violations enumerated in the complaint. Pursuing the same policy as that followed in the Diamond Match litigation, the Industrial Commission placed the report of the investigation before Gov. McGovern, who in turn requested the attorney general to begin action.

Boys Under Sixteen. The Roddis Lumber and Veneer Co. operates large factories at Marshfield and elsewhere in Wisconsin. At Marshfield a great many boys under 21 years are employed. The present suit, however, deals only with those under the age of 16. The law prohibits the employment of boys under 16 for more than eight hours a day or forty-eight hours per week, and it is alleged that scores of these children were "employed, permitted and suffered" to work longer than eight hours per day on the several days enumerated in the complaint. The complaint also alleges that several boys under the age of 16 were employed without the necessary child labor permit.

Under the usual court procedure, the Roddis company will be required to file its answer within twenty days after the filing of the complaint.

FLINN WAGING WAR AGAINST PENROSE

Struggle Enlivens Session of Pennsylvania Legislature—Legislative Program Heavy.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 7.—The Progressive warfare against Senator Penrose promises to enliven the proceedings of the Pennsylvania legislature which convened today. No stone will be left unturned by William Flinn, leader of the Progressives, to secure the passage of measures providing for the direct nomination of United States senators, so that he will have the means in hand to defeat Senator Penrose when the latter seeks re-election in 1915.

The legislative program is one of the heaviest that has faced the Pennsylvania lawmakers in years. Bills have been prepared by the several political parties or by commissions created by the legislature providing among other things for the following: A public service commission for the regulation and control of all public service corporations; prohibition of the sale of fraudulent stock; regulation of the hours of labor for women and children; employer's liability and workmen's compensation; certification and revision of the revenue; election and anthracite mine laws; woman suffrage; a constitutional convention; regulation of campaign contributions; and revision of the laws relating to public charities.

Archbald of the commerce court when the jurist took the stand again today before the senate sitting as a court of impeachment where he is answering charges of misconduct in office and corrupt use of his judicial influence to attain private ends.

While Judge Archbald has admitted many of the circumstances of the charges he has denied any wrongful motive corrupt acts or purposes. "A PENNY SAVED IS SO MUCH EARNED"

What you save is far more important than what you earn. Some people can do with $25 that which others can hardly accomplish with twice as much. One is a prudent and thrifty buyer; the other is reckless and extravagant.

Carelessness in buying, while sometimes unintentional, is due to lack of method, observation, and knowledge.

The best way to buy to best advantage is through reading the advertisements appearing in THE GAZETTE every day. They contain the latest and most important merchandising news; they feature the most reliable products; they enable you to buy at the lowest price for which the article can be sold consistently with quality.

The meeting is regarded as one of the most important which the president-elect has had since he began to consult democratic leaders. Governor Wilson has not declared himself explicitly on the seniority rule, but the activity of Senator Hoke Smith and other democrats intimately identified with the Wilson campaign leads some to believe that he tacitly approves the reorganization movement.

Governor Wilson also wants to learn the views of the Georgia senator covering possible appointments to the cabinet. RELUCTANCE SHOWN AGAINST REOPENING OF THE BALKAN WAR

Balkan Delegates Observe Greek Church Holiday But Will Resume Conference Tomorrow.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, Jan. 7.—There practically is no disposition in London to doubt that as soon as the delegates of Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro, and Serbia have celebrated the Orthodox Christmas holiday, the peace conference will be resumed. There is a deep-seated reluctance among all parties against the re-opening of hostilities although threats of such an eventuality still are uttered.

At the same time the powers are occupied in offering friendly advice to the antagonists and in case this should prove insufficient the ambassadors are seeking for the best methods of intervention.

Speculation concerning the method of providing an issue from the present deadlock are rife. It is asserted that Pechad Pasha, the principal Turkish delegate, has telegraphed to Constantinople asking to reconvene the conference and make some explanations which he was prevented from giving yesterday owing to the brusque suspension of the session. At the next meeting it is his turn to preside.

Much is hoped for from the action of the European powers, especially from Russia. It is believed that the greatest effort of the powers will be exercised at Constantinople. If weeks elapse, however, without the yielding of Adrianople, the Bulgarian delegates declared "it will be General Savoff and cannon who will speak."

The Turkish government has firmly decided not to make any new proposals of peace, according to a dispatch from Constantinople.

REV. W. A. JOHNSON WILL GO TO CAPRON

Has Accepted Pastorate of Norwegian Lutheran Church at That Place—Successor Not Named.

The Rev. W. A. Johnson, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church in this city, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Capron, Ill. The charge was tendered to the Rev. Johnson on Dec. 13 and he filed his acceptance last Thursday. He will continue as pastor of the Janesville church until his successor is named.

The charge to which the Rev. Johnson is called is a congregation with a membership of more than 100, a hundred families, and is the result of the recent union of two congregations affiliated with different synods.—the United and Norwegian synods. The congregation is very much larger than the local one, and although its members are loath to lose their pastor they rejoice in his promotion and enlarged opportunities.

The Rev. Johnson has been pastor of the Janesville Norwegian Lutheran church for the last six years, succeeding Rev. Kvalle, now of Orlinville. He is a graduate of Luther College at Decorah, Ia., receiving his B. A. degree there, and also of Luther Seminary at St. Paul. Before coming to Janesville he had a charge at Audubon, Minn., for five years.

The Rev. Johnson has been an active worker in the Janesville Anti-Tuberculosis Association and in other movements for civic and social betterment and his leaving the city will be regretted by many not his parishioners.

STREET CLEANING FORCE IS CLEARING AWAY SNOW

Plow Used to Make Temporary Walks in Street Where Walks Have Not Been Opened Up.

City employees working under the direction of Supt. of Streets C. K. Milburn, this morning began to clear up after the snowfall of yesterday and last night. Three plows and a scraper were put to work and where the walks had not been shoveled, the plows were used to open up temporary walks in the streets. The plows will not be used for cleaning sidewalks as has been done to some extent previously. Although this was used only where property owners had neglected to shovel their walks, other citizens felt aggrieved because the city did not clean their walks. If property owners have not cleaned their walks, by twenty-four hours after a snowfall the city has the right to clean their walks for them and charge the expense to the property owner on the tax roll after giving them due notice thereof. Gutters will be cleaned out this afternoon to prevent trouble with flood water in the event of a thaw.

Young Men's Society Will Arrange for "Open House" During First Part of February.

Plans are now under way for a series of "open house" reception evenings by the members of the Lakota club, a young men's society whose club rooms are in the Jackson building. A committee composed of Clarence Brown, Ed. Leary and Will Miller was appointed at the meeting of the club last night to take charge of all arrangements. CHANCE TO QUIT BASEBALL ACCORDING TO STATEMENT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Jan. 7.—An early edition of an afternoon paper prints an extended interview with Frank Chance in which Chance states positively that he will not appear in baseball this season and that his purpose in coming to Chicago was to explain fully his attitude to Frank Farrell, who wants the former leader of the Chicago Nationals to manage the New York club of the American league.

While we are taking off our hats to Luther McCarty, the new heavyweight champion, let us not forget to doff our hats also to Lute's press agent, Suid press agent has succeeded in making the world think that McCarty is a product of the wild and woolly west, a cow boy and all that. This is all very romantic and probably helps Lute. But the truth is the new champion is a product of Sydney, O., in which town for several years he dug ditches and cleaned sewers, while his father sold rattlesnake oil and travel school. Lute lived in the west several years, however, so the press agent didn't make his story out of the whole cloth.

Steve Evans, of the St. Louis Cardinals, says there is no chance whatever of his being in the baseball game next season. Steve says he has made arrangements to tour the country with the king of the featherweight boxers—Johnny Kilbane. Also, Evans says he is shortly to become Johnny's assistant manager.

Manager Huggins of the St. Louis Cardinals has announced he has purchased Catcher Larry McLean of the Cincinnati Reds. McLean has been out of baseball since the middle of last season owing to a suspension by the Cincinnati club.

ROLLER POLO TEAM SECURES TWO GAMES

F. B. Kilmer Attends Meeting in Milwaukee, Monday, at Which Tentative Schedule is Arranged.

Two games for the local roller polo team, one in Rockford and a return engagement with the Forest City team on the local floor, were arranged as part of the tentative two weeks' schedule of the Interstate roller polo league at a meeting of the managers in Milwaukee yesterday. MORE FRATERNAL INSURANCE.

The following letter explains itself:

Sharon, Wis., January, 1912.

Janesville Gazette,

Janesville, Wis.

Gentlemen: In your editorial of January 3rd, I read "Fraternalism is Hard." May I ask if that article was of your own construction or was it a paid advertisement? Allow me to ask you, who, and by whose machination, the M. W. A. is disintegrating? But for the infamous proceedings heretofore, the M. W. A.

would still be the ablest fraternal order in the United States. Do you read the M. W. A. paper? If so, take a few hours off, do some figuring, and then see if I am not correct in writing you, that but for the action of the Chicago head camps, today the order would be thousands stronger in membership and instead of ten million dollars in the benefit fund, they would have exceeded twelve millions—and this at twelve assessments a year.

I concede the right of the old line companies to raise or lower their rates, regardless of the opinions of its policyholders, but I do not concede the right of the hired men of the M.

W. A., or any fraternal insurance company, to tell their employer what he shall do. I admit that the delegates voted for that which very gladly they would retract. I admit that the actuaries are the only learned men who can twist a figure out of proportion to itself. I admit the order is having hundreds of lapses, and that its members face a crisis, but I glory in my theory that right is right, and the right will not wrong any man.

All honor to such honest and honorable judges as Judge Shirley and Judge Bradshaw, noble defenders of the widow and orphan, and noble defenders of the old man.

Very truly yours,

GEORGE GALLUP, W. A. P. J.

Sharon, Wis.

For the enlightenment of our correspondent the Gazette would say that the editorial referred to was neither inspired nor paid for by an insurance company. The author is an old time victim of misplaced confidence in fraternal insurance, having been present at the birth and death of a number of organizations of this class, during the past half century.

The Modern Woodman is numerically the strongest organization of this kind now in existence, but numerical strength is an element of weakness as liabilities are in proportion.

A reserve fund of a few million dollars amounts to nothing, where liabilities are more than a billion.

The small assessments, once a month, are sufficient, to pay losses for a time, but as the losses increase in volume, more money is required to meet them, and this extra demand for money always creates dissatisfaction, as it has with the Modern Woodmen.

Fraternal insurance is mutual insurance of the crudest sort. The principle on which it is based is wrong, and the final outcome has been failure, in that other organizations have traveled, as the members who survive the final collapse, will discover to their sorrow, for many of them will be left without protection at an age when they will be unable to secure it.

THE MORO A FIRST-CLASS FIGHTING MAN.

From Luzon to Thursday Island the word "Moro" stood for cruelty and bloodshed. For two hundred and fifty years these fanatics held undisputed sway, robbing, killing and taking slaves at will. Not a coast town in the Philippine group had escaped their ravages, and a Spanish priest was looked on as a prize captive. Thousands of boys and girls were stolen and forced into slavery.

It was not till about the time of our Civil War that the Spaniards, by bringing out some twenty small steam gunboats from Europe, were able even to confine the Moros to their own island. To this day northern island natives speak with dread of the Moros, and in many coast towns one may see old stone forts, built long ago to repel Moro raids. Every successive governor general from Madrid took his outdoor sport campaigning against the Moros, but until the island was occupied by United States troops in 1898 they had never been really subdued.

Such were the Moros when Uncle Sam took the contract for their pacification and uplift. And derisive enough were the comments of many British and German papers. Sad, sudden and sickening failure was freely predicted, "for," said these journals, "what do the Yankees know of the Oriental, or of ruling him?"

Hark now for the answer. Today in Mindanao vast farms of hemp and coconuts flourish in the fertile valleys; scores of contented Moros are on Yankee payrolls, and even our most captious critics, the British cousins, admit that Yankee rule in Mindanao has been a glad surprise to the civilized world. First under General Wood, then under Bliss, Hoyt and Pershing, the taming of the Moros and the trial of the Golden Rule has gone on. Christian Herald.

Our government has been freely criticised for its policy in holding the Philippine Islands, but the civilizing influences, outlined in the above paragraphs, are certainly producing wonderful results. The islands came to us unexpectedly, as the result of war, and the obligation forced upon us is a sacred obligation. This fact our government fully appreciates.

Labor leaders are gaining nothing for the cause of labor in criticising the action of the federal court in the dynamite cases. The convicted men had a fair and impartial trial, and the evidence produced was the result of two years' work on the part of the government. Somebody was responsible for the dastardly deeds which had become so common that they were a menace to life and property, and it was high time that something was done to locate the guilty parties, and bring them to justice. The people of the country are satisfied with the verdict, however disappointing it may be to sympathizers.

A lively fight is going on in Madison between the La Follette and McGovern forces. Five candidates aspire to the speakership. Three are said to be for the senator, and two for the governor. McGovern hopes to succeed "Uncle Ike" in the United States senate, and naturally desires to control the legislature. The people generally are not very much interested. When the session gets down to business, the state may be prepared for all sorts of freak legislation. Some five hundred bills are already prepared, and many more are under way.

The cold wave, which is just now sweeping over the Pacific coast, is playing havoc with the fruit crop, and California oranges are likely to be a luxury. The temperature at Los Angeles is the lowest in the history of the city, and heavy damages are reported.

Some folks in Janesville would recall the mayor because he runs a "closed" town, while in Superior some want a recall because the mayor is too "wide open." There's nothing like living half way between two such cities.—Eau Claire Leader.

The city of Ottumwa, Iowa, adopted the commission form of government, at a special election held yesterday. Only about half of the voters turned out, and the plan carried by a narrow margin.

Fraternal insurance is mutual insur-

the final outcome has been failure, in every instance. The Woodman and Arcanum are traveling the same route science he explained to the bartender what he had done. "That's all right," said the bartender, "and I'm certainly much obliged to you for you having saved my life. If I ever found a good nickle in that pi-anuer I would drop dead."

Old Man Purdy set with his feet in the oven to blame long the other evening, and when he woke up his wooden leg was burnt about an inch on the end. He is now giving fancy charcoal drawing lessons on the cement sidewalks about town. Many a fellow can draw a picture who can't draw a salary. Hi Higgins says he expects to go over to Hank Tumms' tomorrow evening after supper. Hank says Hi may come after it, but won't get it. A Chinese from down to the city is thinking of starting a laundry in this man's town. They say a Chinik can live on 2 cents a day, but he would have to live on less than that if he started a laundress here.

It is rumored that Grandma Perkins, who has been on the verge of death for nine years, has eloped with Uncle Ezra Harkins who is one hundred and ten years old, and has smoked and chewed all his life. He will not do all the chawin' in the future if the rumor is true. Later—Grandma Perkins and Uncle Ezra Harkins both say they haven't eloped as we go to press, but it is rumored anyhow and we ain't going to spoil a good news item for a couple of oldsters that don't take the paper. William Tibbitts the grocer dealer, who doesn't advertise in the home paper, has had his whiskers shaved off.

The Homely Man.

The homeliest man I ever saw was Ebenezer Brown. He was a sort of laughin' stock for folks here in our town. The jokers all told Eben that his face would stop a clock. If he looked at a pan of milk, it turned sour from the shock. The gals all turned poor Eben down. They didn't like his style. The pretty fellows had him beat by many a long mile.

So Eb got mad and went away and stayed for quite a while. And managed to accumulate a neat and nifty pile. The pretty fellows stayed around and flirted with the girls. And look 'em to the huskies and the other social whirls. No one of 'em was doin' much but livin' with their folks. And gettin' in the grocery store and crackin' funny jokes. One day Eb came back into town up on a private car. He had a diamond shirt-stud that would twinkle like a star. He didn't care for money and he showed it right and left. He had a bank roll that a fellow couldn't hardly lift. He set the old folks up for life and told in modest style. About the way he'd gone away and gathered in his pile.

Eb was just as homely as he ever was before. Perhaps a little more so than he was in days of yore. But still it dawned upon the pretty fellows mighty quick. That Eb would simply go among the girls and take his pick. He took a good long time to choose, did Ebenezer Brown. And then he wed the prettiest gal in all the gold ding town.

ENGINEER KILLED IN WRECK LAST EVENING

JAMES ROONEY OF THIS CITY DIED IN MONTICELLO FROM INJURIES RECEIVED IN WRECK.

FIREMAN BADLY HURT

Arthur Dooley, Fireman on Engine Which Rolled Down Embankment, Suffering From Concussion of Brain.

The remains of the late James P. Rooney, an engineer on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, who died from the effects of injuries received when the engine he was running rolled down a high embankment about a mile and a half west of Monticello last night, were brought to this city this afternoon on the train arriving from the west at 4:45.

The accident in which Mr. Rooney was injured, occurred about 6:30 o'clock last night, and he passed away in Monticello, where he was taken after the accident, about nine o'clock. Fireman Arthur Dooley, who was working on the engine with Mr. Rooney, was taken to his home at Broadhead by a relief train.

He was still in a dazed condition this morning, and seemed to be in pain about the head and back, and later examination shows he is suffering from concussion of the brain. His mother, Mrs. John Dooley, of this city, was summoned to Broadhead today, as it is feared his injuries are more serious than was supposed.

The body of Mr. Rooney was accompanied to this city this afternoon by a brother and a number of the railroad men, friends of the deceased. Members of the local division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers acted as pall-bearers here, and the remains were taken to the home at 325 Palm street.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, but it is thought the services will be held Thursday, and the remains will be taken to Calamine or Mineral Point for burial.

The accident in which Mr. Rooney came to his death was caused by a broken rail on the reverse side of a slow curve west of Monticello, and the engine and two loaded stock cars were thrown down a high embankment. Arthur Dooley, fireman on the engine, jumped just as the engine left the track, and struck on his head. Mr. Rooney stayed in the engine, and was killed.

When the engine left the track, Mr. Rooney ordered his fireman to jump, but he stayed with the locomotive until it rolled down the embankment and over on its side. It is thought his head struck the cab window when he was thrown out, and caused the fracture which resulted in his death.

A summons for aid to the nearest station was sent by Conductor Charles Moore, who was in charge of the train, and Mr. Rooney was conveyed to Monticello in an automobile. A relief train took Dooley to Broadhead.

Word of the wreck was sent to this city last night, and an order issued to send the Janesville wrecker, but later the wrecker was ordered from Milwaukee, and the wrecker and crew passed through this city between three and four o'clock this morning to pick up the wreck, which is said to be one of the worst which has occurred on the New Glarus branch.

BRIEF SESSION HELD BY COUNCIL TODAY

Business Submitted Consisted of But Few Monthly Reports—Bills of Last Month Total $482.

Little business was submitted to the City Council at its regular meeting this afternoon and the session was brief. The Council received and adopted the December reports of the Auditor, the City Treasurer, and Chief of Police. The total of bills allowed for the month was unusually low being only $482. This is due to the cessation of all outside municipal work except the cleaning of streets, etc. In the rush of caring for tax collections there has been little time for the Council to devote to promoting other municipal activities.

When they had finished Judge Grimm stated that he had not changed his opinion in the least that the case was tried entirely on its merits. He stated that he was seriously in doubt at the time that a motion for non-suit was made.

WOMAN'S PAGE

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

The Peculiar Germ of Exclusiveness.

WHEN you consider the different ways people regard life, don't you think on the whole we have rather queer ideas about it? pronounced the girl who is original, to the group of friends in the studio. "What now?" asked Elizabeth, who rather enjoyed following the somewhat unusual and zigzag train of thought of the girl who is original.

"I was helping Grace make out the list for her party, and I suggested Carrie Lewis. You might have thought I had insulted Grace. 'The ideal' she exclaimed. 'She's not in our set. I wouldn't think of such a thing!'"

"But she's awfully nice," I persisted. "She's clever and jolly and everybody likes her."

"Yes, I've heard she's nice," said Grace. "But you know, she's not our kind of people." And then she went on with her list as if she had stated one of the ten commandments that couldn't be changed.

"Well, she isn't!" exclaimed one of the girls, "and it would be embarrassing all around if she came."

"Fudge!" said the girl who is original. "Because your folks and mine came over with William Penn, and probably grabbed a lot of land without paying for it, why does that make us any better than folks whose ancestors came over in some other boat, and as to the land, were probably polite enough to say, 'After you, Alphonse,' and so go left. It does strike me as queer why people, because of something their ancestors did, draw themselves into a shell, and extend a very chilly finger-tip to those whose ancestors did something different. In this day and generation this attitude seems childish. In fact, it is really worse than that. I think their brains must be atrophied."

The girl who had sided with exclusiveness looked slightly huffy. "I suppose when you give a party," she said, "you'll invite all the ragtag and bobtail of the town."

"No, I won't. But if people are nice, I'll have them, whether their great-grandfather came over in the Mayflower or swam over. All I am trying to understand is the point of view of people who think that because they have been born into a certain family they are a superior sort of person. In brains, in character, in usefulness, in everything that counts they can't come anywhere near the person whom they look down upon. Yet they complacently consider themselves immeasurably above the other. And they are perfectly sincere in their belief, too. Grace considers herself an immeasurably superior person to Carrie. And she will never lose this attitude, no matter how Carrie might distinguish herself. Socially, she will still look down upon her from heights of exclusiveness, and say condescendingly, 'Oh, yes.' She has really done very well. She was a Lewis, you know. And she will still think to be a Lewis instead of a Barnett is to be shut out from the realms of the elect. Now will you tell me by what brain process one arrives at that conclusion?"

But the crowd was silent. For none of them felt inclined to invite Carrie Lewis to their parties, though they knew she was a clever, charming girl. But she certainly wasn't of their set. And that settled it.

Barbara Boyd.

The KITCHEN CABINET

IT IS not what we read, but what we remember, that makes us learned. It is not what we intend, but what we do, that makes us useful. It is not a few faint wishes, but a lifelong struggle, that makes us valiant.

—Henry Ward Beecher.

COLLECTION OF PUDDING SAUCES

A pudding may be made or marred by the sauce which is served with it. Of course, individual taste must be considered.

For a sponge pudding or a blanc mange there is no more delicious sauce than Orange Sauce.—Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, add a cup of powdered sugar and continue beating; add the rind and juice of two oranges and the juice of a lemon.

Melassas Sauce.—A cup of molasses and one and a half tablespoons of butter boiled together five minutes; remove from the heat and add two tablespoons of lemon juice or a tablespoonful of vinegar.

Cream Sauce.—Beat together until thick a fourth of a cup of milk and three-fourths of a cup of thick cream; add a third of a cup of powdered sugar and a half teaspoonful of vanilla.

Foamy Sauce.—Cream half a cup of butter, add a cup of powdered sugar, an egg well beaten and a tablespoonful of vanilla. Beat while heating over hot water.

Chocolate Sauce.—Scald two cups of milk, add a tablespoonful and a half of cornstarch to four tablespoons of powdered sugar. Add to the milk and cook eight minutes; melt two squares of chocolate over hot water, add two tablespoons of hot water, stir until smooth, and then add to the cooked mixture. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add gradually two-thirds of a cup of powdered sugar. Continue beating, then add the unbeaten yolks and stir into the cooked mixture. Cook one minute. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla and cool before serving.

Looking Far Ahead.

"What a fine dream last night."

"What did you dream about, Dobbers?"

"I dreamed I had paid the last installment on a set of books."

"That must have made you happy."

"It did, but everything around me seemed different from what it is now and I'm afraid I was dreaming about a time that belongs to the distant future."

SMART FROCK FOR MORNING WEAR

Have you tried applying coal oil twice a day until the wart comes off? Or you can mix 1 grain of paraffin with 9 parts of flexible collodion (have it done in drugstore) and apply to wart three times a day. After two or three days you can pick the wart off.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A WASTE OF ENERGY.

TO FRET over things which you cannot help is a most ridiculous waste of energy. Anyone will acknowledge that. And yet how few people there are who possess the strength of mind not to do it.

I was calling on a woman the other day who has not been well since her last baby was born. The doctor has told her that the only way she can get back to normal is to take things easy. If she overdoes her self just now, he says, the consequence may be impaired vitality for the rest of her life.

Unfortunately the family financial condition is not such that this woman can have anyone to help her, and the only way to take it easy is to let things go right and left. "One would think that for the sake of all the future years she would be glad to do this." On the contrary, she is constantly fretting because she cannot keep things up as she is used to having them. She deluged me with complaints and apologies. "Just look at those curtains; they ought not to go a day longer without washing and yet I can't do it. It worries me so." "I hope you didn't notice how dirty that hall carpet is; it frets me every time I go out there," etc.

Just think how much this woman is retarding her recovery by fretting about these things which she cannot help!

Undoubtedly it is one of the hardest duties of many a housewife to school herself not to fret about those things which she has not the time nor strength to do. Few women have the strength and leisure to keep their homes as immaculate as they would like to. Tasks which they know they ought to do, and which they would really like to do if they only had the time and vitality are constantly staring them in the face. "My idea of happiness," I once heard a housewife say, "is a place where the days are long enough for me to get all I want to do, and where I'll have the strength to do it with."

Some housewives, when confronted with tasks beyond their strength simply rise up and do them whether or not, sacrificing on the altar of good housekeeping, health and nerves and the rights of husbands and children.

Others are not quite insane enough to do this, but they are almost as foolish, for they waste nearly as much vitality fretting and worrying because they cannot do these things.

A few wise women do what they have strength and time to do and train themselves to think as little as possible about the rest.

To which class do you belong?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What do you think of a fellow that goes with a girl of 17, and takes her out nights without asking her mother for permission? Do you think he respects the girl when, instead of calling on her at home, he "chuckles" and when she hears him she gives out to speak to him on the street? Isn't the girl foolish?

(2)—Is it wrong or right if a married sister refuses to call the young sister to the phone when boys call up to speak to her, when the mother forbids it as she thinks the girl is too young to flit with boys over the phone and make dates to go out with them?

(3)—Is it right for a girl of 20 who is engaged to a fellow who is out of town, to go with other boys to shows and also correspond with them?

ANXIOUS.

(1)—He certainly does not respect her. The girl is old enough to know better. Any young girl who wants a REAL man to love her will show him that she cares enough for her womanhood to consult her mother before making engagements to go out with a man.

(2)—The married sister is right.

(3)—The engaged girl loves her fiancé she will not want to go out with other men, though there is no harm in occasionally going with a man escort when her fiancé is out of the city and he does not object.

or more, if necessary. Boil after bleaching. This will make the clothes white as snow; also whitens clothes that have turned yellow with age.

The Table.

Baked Beans With Tomato Sauce.—Wash one quart navy beans, put in two-quart pan or bean pot, add two tablespoons molasses, one cup tomatoes, one-half pound breakfast bacon or one pound fresh pork and a little salt. Fill pan with cold water, and bake five hours in a moderate oven. Add more water as needed, allowing the beans to become well browned.

Chicken With Creamed Rice.—Boil chicken with soup greens (if fowl is old allow it to simmer about three hours). Remove some of the broth, place in double boiler with one cup rice. When rice is soft, stir into one cup cream or milk, one yolk egg, one tablespoon butter and a touch of mace. Remove it from fire. Use noodles for broth and serve chicken with the rice. Lamb or mutton or beef is also very appetizing served with creamed rice.

Fried Cakes.—Mix one large egg, 1-2 cups sugar, one large cup sour milk, one-fourth cup of lard, one teaspoonful soda, pinch of salt, half teaspoon grated nutmeg. Add enough sifted flour to make dough just stiff enough to roll out. Roll out, cut with doughnut cutter, let stand a few minutes, fry in hot grease, roll in powdered sugar. These are delicious and inexpensive.

Mischiefous Anger.

Our anger and impatience often prove much more mischievous than the things about which we are angry or impatient.—Marcus Aurelius.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—My hands get rough and black from work; I can't wash it off. What shall I do to make them white? (2)—When a boy friend hears a girl is sick and sends her a bouquet of flowers, when she sees him at a dance should she thank him? (3)—I am 15 years old. Am I too young to go to dances when the hall is near by? (4)—Is there any harm in frizzing your hair?

(5)—Should a girl speak to a boy when he speaks to her and doesn't tip his hat? (6)—Should a boy or a girl speak first? (7)—If a boy asks a girl to go automobile riding with him and his parents, should she go? (8)—A boy insulted me four times. Should I tell him about it? (9)—Are narrow skirts being worn this winter? (10)—Am I too young for skirt and waist?

(1)—Rub cold cream or vaseline into your hands at night, and wear gloves all night. Wear gloves at your work as much as possible. After washing the hands rub into them a little of the mixture of glycerine, alcohol and lemon juice.

(2)—Yes. (3)—Yes. Public dances are not good for any girl. They are only run by men who want to make money out of them and don't care how much harm is done to the boys and girls who go there. (4)—It will harm the hair. (5)—She might let it pass the first time, but should refuse to recognize him if he does it again. (6)—The girl. (7) The parents should invite her, too.

(8)—If a boy insults a girl more than once it is her fault. It is up to you to see that it does not happen again. (9)—Yes, but don't wear your skirt so narrow that it is indecent. (10)—No.

Have you tried applying coal oil twice a day until the wart comes off? Or you can mix 1 grain of paraffin with 9 parts of flexible collodion (have it done in drugstore) and apply to wart three times a day. After two or three days you can pick the wart off.

Buckwheat Cakes

Raised without Yeast

When they are just right, the old-fashioned yeast-raised buckwheat cakes are just fine. But it takes a skillful hand to get them "just right" and many housewives do not want to be bothered with a bowl of batter standing around all the time. Made after this recipe, buckwheat cakes are as good as any you ever ate and much superior to those made with self-raising flour.

Made with K C double raise baking powder, the last of the batter will make just as light cakes as the first.

K C Buckwheat Cakes

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

1 cup buckwheat flour; 1 tablespoonful sugar; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 1/2 cups cold water; 1 teaspoonful salt.

Sift together, three times, the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder; stir the water in all at once and bake on a hot, well oiled griddle. Buckwheat flour calls for a generous measure of baking powder. Part milk may be used to mix the cakes but water gives quite as good results.

A delicious "spread" for griddle cakes is made by creaming together about twice as much honey (either comb or strained) as butter. Work it up with a fork to about the consistency of hard sauce.

Readers of this paper may obtain "The Cook's Book" containing 100 other delicious recipes free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the James Mfg. Co., Chicago. Send for "The Cook's Book" today.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—My hands get rough and black from work; I can't wash it off. What shall I do to make them white? (2)—When a boy friend hears a girl is sick and sends her a bouquet of flowers, when she sees him at a dance should she thank him? (3)—I am 15 years old. Am I too young to go to dances when the hall is near by? (4)—Is there any harm in frizzing your hair?

(5)—Should a girl speak to a boy when he speaks to her and doesn't tip his hat? (6)—Should a boy or a girl speak first? (7)—If a boy asks a girl to go automobile riding with him and his parents, should she go? (8)—A boy insulted me four times. Should I tell him about it? (9)—Are narrow skirts being worn this winter? (10)—Am I too young for skirt and waist?

(1)—Rub cold cream or vaseline into your hands at night, and wear gloves all night. Wear gloves at your work as much as possible. After washing the hands rub into them a little of the mixture of glycerine, alcohol and lemon juice.

(2)—Yes. (3)—Yes. Public dances are not good for any girl. They are only run by men who want to make money out of them and don't care how much harm is done to the boys and girls who go there. (4)—It will harm the hair. (5)—She might let it pass the first time, but should refuse to recognize him if he does it again. (6)—The girl. (7) The parents should invite her, too.

(8)—If a boy insults a girl more than once it is her fault. It is up to you to see that it does not happen again. (9)—Yes, but don't wear your skirt so narrow that it is indecent. (10)—No.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

growth of the yeast. Be very careful of temperature. No draughts, or air blowing on the dough.

Bread.

Material.—One pint skim milk, six cups bread flour, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful sugar and one-half cake yeast.

Utensils.—Bread mixer, wire measuring cup, sauce pan, teaspoon and flour sifter.

Directions.—If a bread mixer is used, have it cleaned and ready for use. Put the milk into a sauce pan and just scald. Be careful of this, for if the milk boils the bread is sure to be coarse-grained. Pour the scalded milk into the mixer and let cool to lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast in half a cup of lukewarm water, with the sugar and a little flour, so that the yeast can begin to work at once. Then add to the warm milk with the salt and sifted flour. Mix all in at once and turn the mixer until the dough feels light and springy to the touch, about 15 or 20 minutes. Then cover and set in a warm place until it doubles its size or bulk, about 2 hours. Have the pans warm and greased; make two loaves and put into the pans. cover with another pan or greased paper and set in the same temperature as before and let rise an hour or until it doubles its bulk again.

Have a hot oven ready. Bake 15 minutes and then lower the heat to steady baking for 45 minutes. Stand on the wire mat to cool, but do not cover. Put away in a tin bread box or stone jar, cover, but never wrap the bread in a cloth.

Various Breads.

Sometimes a loaf of graham, one of whole wheat or nut bread is desired besides the white loaf or rolls. This is very easily managed by doubling the amount given in the recipe just given for bread, only adding sufficient flour to make a sponge or batter. Beat well with a slotted wooden spoon until very light. Cover and set to rise until it has doubled its bulk and is full of bubbles. Now this sponge may be divided into four equal measures. White flour is added to make a white loaf; graham flour and a little molasses or brown sugar for a graham loaf; being sure it is not too stiff; whole wheat flour and a cup of chopped nuts for a whole wheat loaf and the last may have shortening and eggs as desired with white flour until stiff and made into rolls. All these to raise as directed and bake, with less heat for the graham loaf.

If the rolls are not desired at this baking add shortening and flour until stiff, knead, cover and set in the refrigerator until wanted.

English Muffins.

Material.—One pint milk, three tablespoonfuls butter, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful sugar, one cake yeast and flour.

Utensils.—Sauce pan, tablespoon, teaspoon, measuring cup and muffin rings or pan.

Directions.—Carefully scald the milk and add the water. When lukewarm, add the yeast dissolved in half a cup of lukewarm water with the sugar; add salt and sufficient flour to make a batter which will drop from the spoon. Beat well and set to rise for two hours. Heat and grease the dripping pan, also muffin rings or gem pans, fill two-thirds with the batter and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes or until done

BREAKING OUT SPREAD ON LEG

Formed Large Blotches. Itching Terrible. Ugly Sores Would Break Open and Run. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Few Weeks.

Hiltop, Kan.—"About two years ago I began to notice a breaking out on my leg. At first it was very small but soon it began to spread until it formed large blotches. The itching was terrible and almost constant. Many nights I could not sleep at all. For nearly a year I tried all kinds of salves and ointment, but found no relief. Some salves seemed to make it worse until there were ugly sores, which would break open and run."

"One day I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Remedies. I got a sample of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and began by washing the sores with the Cuticura Soap then applying the Cuticura Ointment twice a day. I noticed a change and got more Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few weeks I was cured. It has healed so nicely that no scar remains." (Signed) Mrs. Anna A. Lew, Dec. 17, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scales, dandruff, dry skin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapely nails with painful finger-ends, that it is almost criminal not to use them. GET A TEN CENT BOX OF CASCARETS.

Insures you for months against a Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or a Bad Stomach.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oils or purgative waters which merely force a passage through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George M. H. Adams
BY WALT MASON

When women vote there'll be an end of trouble, grief and tears will all be done away; success and joy will then be trotting double, we'll drop our work and all run out and play. Ah, then, my friends, there'll be an end of sighing, in all the world there'll be no hint of woe, while over-land the pigs are deftly flying, and roosters cluck, and hens rear up and crow. When women vote the tillers and the tillers no more will be the slaves of plutocrats; the social scheme will find them its chief pillars—and cats will live in peace with mice and rats. No winter storms or cold will be permitted, our lives will then be cast in pleasant June; and they'll campaign who lately sat and knitted, and wives will wear their husbands' pantaloons. When women vote the crooks will leave their perches, there'll be no drink more fierce than lemonade; we'll set forth a-builing schools and churches where late the Run Holes cast their baleful shade. When women vote there'll be no cloud or shadow, the wide wide world of sunlight will be full; and every cow that browses in the meadow will paw around and think she is a bull.

DINNER STORIES

Reginald de Koven told at a musicale in Chicago a story in praise of modesty. "A group of tourists," he said, "in Bonn visited Beethoven's house. One of the tourists, a girl of twenty or so, sat down at Beethoven's piano and played the 'Moonlight Sonata' none too well, on his own piano. When the girl had finished she rose and said to the old caretaker: 'I suppose lots of famous musicians have been here.' 'Well, mass,' the caretaker answered, 'glovely. Paderewski was here last year and his friends urged him to play, but he shook his head, and said, 'No, I am not worthy.'"

The mayor of a French town had, in accordance with the regulations, to make out a passport for a rich and highly respectable lady of his acquaintance, who, in spite of her slight disfigurement, was very vain of her person. He wrote among the items of personal description: "Eyes dark, beautiful, tender, expressive, but one of them missing."

After midnight on some of the suburban trolley runs of Newark, N. J., the "No Smoking" rule is a dead letter. There are no women aboard to object and the conductor winks the other eye. About 1:20 the other morning a gentlemanly stranger got on a car toward the end of the journey. He was smoking a cigar, and said to the conductor:

"All right for me to smoke now, isn't it?"

"Sorry, Cap," replied the knight of the bell-rope, "but you ain't s'posed to. Rules is very strict."

"Well," said the traveler, "somebody has been smoking here. I can smell it. And look at those cigar and cigarette butts on the floor."

"Where did they come from?"

"Aw," explained the conductor, "them was left by guys that didn't ask."

The Duke of Wellington, who had a taste for anything that Napoleon had liked, applied to David the artist, who had painted Napoleon's portrait, requesting David to execute one of himself. "Sir," replied David, "I paint only historical characters."

Professor Woodrow Wilson isn't the only professor that Champ Clark has opposed in politics. Professor Theodor, once defeated him for congress just because of the overconfidence of Clark's friends.

The next time there was an election Clark was not so confident, and he went back to congress.

One of the times Clark was beaten for office he was running for the state legislature. The Republicans and the Greenbackers fused against him. Early in the evening the young lawyer knew what had happened and went to bed. He lived in a little room back of a drug store. The Republicans had a jollification and, as the night wore on, concluded they would wake the defeated candidate, who was their personal friend and fellow citizen. The man who had been elected was named Enoch Pepper.

The crowd had cheered Pepper and from Pepper's house went to the drug store and hammered on Clark's door. The tall, gaunt, rawboned young lawyer appeared. He looked out of sleepy eyes at the cheering crowd. There was silence—a long silence. Then Clark bellowed forth in that great voice of his:

"Peace on earth, Good will toward all men, I am beaten. When the cow kicks the bucket over always get up and milk another cow. Hence, forth and forever I am out of politics, and I shall devote whatever talents I may possess to the practice of law. I feel a great deal like the old farmer at the time of the famine, who prayed, 'Oh, Lord, bring us a bar'l of pork, and a bar'l of salt, and a bar'l of pepper.' Oh, hell, that's too much pepper! I feel, fellow citizens, as though I have had too much Pepper. Good-night!"

W. R. Fox, 195 W. Washington St., Noblesville, Ind., says: "After suffering many months with kidney trouble, after trying other remedies and prescriptions, I purchased a box of Foley Kidney Pills, which not only did me more good than any other remedies I ever used, but have positively set my kidneys right. Other members of my family have used them with similar results. You will save time and money, and avoid needless pain and suffering by taking Foley Kidney Pills at the first sign of kidney trouble. Try them. Refuse any substitute. Badger Drug Co."

Owes Life to This Consumption Remedy

It is beyond human power to perform miracles. The makers of Eckman's Alternative, a remedy for Consumption, do not claim that it will restore every one to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified to saving their lives, that all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It should stop the night sweats, reduce fever, promote appetite and in very many cases, prolong life. Read what it accomplished in this case—

Catherine Ave. and Ascor Place, Queen's Court, L. I.

"Gentlemen: In the year 1908 I was taken with a heavy cold and a nagging cough and went to several doctors, including a specialist. Their medicines failed. I then went to the Catholic Hospital, but the cough still kept up. I stayed there a year and then went on a farm near Jersey City, a very sick man. My brother then recommended Eckman's Alternative to me very highly. At first I would not consent to use it, owing to the fact that I had taken so many medicines without being helped in any way, but finally I consented. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now cured and I dare say that I would have been buried long ago if it had not been for Eckman's Alternative. I wish to thank you for the goodness to me. Whenever I go I highly recommend the Alternative as I owe my life to it." (Signed) William J. J. FLORESCHER.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

MOLLY McDONALD A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

By RANDALL PARRISH
Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "My Lady of the South," etc., etc.
Illustrations by J. L. Barack

It was after dark when "M" troop, weary by their long day's march across the brown grass, rode slowly up the face of the bluff, and into the parade ground at Fort Dodge. The lights of the guard-house revealed the troopers' faces, while all about them gleamed the yellow lamps, as the garison came forth to welcome their arrival. Guided by a corporal of the guard the men led their horses to the stables, and as they passed the row of officers' houses Hamlin caught a furtive glimpse in a radius of light that gave his pulses a sudden thrill. She was here then—here! He had hardly dared hope for this. They would meet again; that could scarcely be avoided in such narrow quarters. But how? On what terms? He ventured the one swift glimpse at her—a slender, white-robed figure, one among a group of both men and women before an open door, through which the light streamed—heard her ask: "Who are they? What cavalry troop is that?" caught the response in a man's voice: "M" of the Seventh, from Fort Union," and then passed by, his eyes looking straight ahead, his hand gripping his horse's bit.

Thirty minutes later in the great barn-like barracks, he hung his ac-couterments over the bed assigned him in the far corner, and, revolver belt still buckled about his waist, stood at the open window, striving to determine which of those winking lights shone from the house where he had seen her. There had been something in the eagerness of her voice which he could not forget, nor escape from. She had seemed to care, to feel an interest deeper than mere curiosity. The Sergeant's heart beat rapidly, even while he sternly told himself he was a fool. A hand touched his shoulder, and he wheeled about to grip Wasson's hand.

"Well, 'Brick,' old boy," said the scout genially, although his thin face was as solemn as ever; "so you fellows have come back to be in the shindy?"

"We've been in it all summer, Sam," was the reply. "It's been lively enough south of the Cimarron, the Lord knows. I've been riding patrol for months now. But what's up? No one seems to know why we were ordered in."

"It's all guess-work here," and Wasson sat down on the narrow bed and lit his pipe. "But the 'old man' is getting something under way, consolidating troops. Your regiment is going to be used, that's certain. I've been carrying orders between here and Wallace for three weeks now, and I've heard Sheridan explode once or twice. He's tired of this guerrilla business, and wants to have one good fight."

"That's getting late."

"That's the way he figures it out, according to my notion. We've always let those fellows alone during the bad

"Must be," came from Dutch Charlie's outfit, the scout went on slowly. "He picks up all that soper truck."

"Where is that?"

"In town that, under the bluff, we'll look it up tomorrow."

CHAPTER XIV.

Under Arrest.

One by one the barracks lights went out as the tired troopers sought their beds. Hamlin extinguished his also, and only one remained burning, left for emergency near the door, which flung a faint glow over the big room. But the Sergeant's reflections kept him awake, as he sat on the foot of his bed, and stared out of the open window into the darkness. There was little upon which to focus his eyes, a few yellow gleams along officers' row, where callers still lingered, and the glow of a fire in front of the distant guard-house, revealing occasionally the black silhouette of a passing sentinel. Few noises broke the silence, except the strains of some distant musical instrument, and a voice far away saying good-night. Once he awoke from reverie to listen to the call of the guards, as it echoed from post to post, ceasing with "All well, Number Nine," far out beyond the stables.

The familiar sound served to recall him to the reality of his position. What was the use? What business had he to dream? For months now he had kept that girl's face before him, in memory of a few hours of happiness when he had looked into her dark eyes and heard her pleasant speech. Yet from the first he had known the foolishness of it all. He was nothing to her, and could never become anything. Even if he cleared his past record and stepped out of the ranks into his old social position, the chances were she would never overlook what he had been. Her gratitude meant little, nor her passing interest in his army career. All that was the natural result of his having saved her life.

He possessed no egotism which permitted him to think otherwise. Years of discipline had drilled into him a consciousness of the impassable gulf between the private and the officer's daughter. The latter might be courteous, kindly disposed, even grateful for services rendered, but it must end there. The Major would see that it did, would resent bitterly any presumption. No, there was nothing else possible. If they met—as meet they must in that contracted post—it would be most formal, a mere exchange of reminiscence, gratitude expressed by a smile and pleasant word. He could expect no more; might esteem himself fortunate, indeed, to receive even that recognition. Meanwhile he would endeavor to strike the Fevre's trail. There were other interests in the world to consider besides Molly McDonald, and his memory drifted away to a home he had not visited in years.

"That little girl you sent in with us is here yet?"

The Sergeant was conscious that his cheeks flamed, but he never looked up.

"Yes, I saw her as we came in."

"She's asked me about you once or twice; don't seem to forget what you did for her."

"Sorry to hear that."

"No, yer not; couldn't no man be sorry to have a girl like that take an interest in him. 'Tain't in human nature. What did yer tell her about me?"

"Told her," surprised close to you if anything happened. I didn't exactly like the style of the Lieutenant."

"That's wat I thought. Well, she's done it, though that hasn't pried her loose from Gaskins. He's hauntin' her like a shadow. It's garrison talk they're engaged, but I ain't so sure 'bout that. She ain't hev got to be pretty good friends, though, of course, it's strictly on the quiet, an' yer got no invite to officers' row yit. She's asked me a lot 'bout you."

"Interesting topic."

"Well, I reckon as how she thinks it is, anyhow. Yesterday she asked me 'bout that scrimmage yer had down on the Canadian. She'd heard 'bout it somehow, an' wanted the story straight. So I told her all I knowed, an' yer oughter seed her eyes shine while I was sorter paintin' it up."

"Oh, hell; let's drop it," disgustedly.

"The Lieutenant here yet?"

"Sure; his Company is down on Monument, but he got special detail. He's got a pull, Gaskins has."

"How is that?"

"His old man is Senator, or something, an' they say, has scads o' money. Envyway, the kid finds the army a soft snap. First scoutin' detail he ever had when you met him. Didn't hunt no danger then, so far as I could see. Nice little dude, with a swelled head, but popular with the ladies. I reckon McDonald ain't objectin' none to his chasin' after Miss Molly; that's why he's let her stay in this God-forsaken place so long. Well, 'Brick,' I reckon I've told all the news, and hed better move 'long."

"Hold on a minute, Sam," and Hamlin, suddenly recalled to earth, reached for the haversack hanging on the iron bedpost. "Moylan, the fellow who was killed in the coach with us, had this bag. According to Miss McDonald, he bought it here just before startin' on the trip. See this inscription; those are the initials of an old acquaintance of mine I'd like to trace. Any idea where Moylan found it?"

Wasson held the bag to the light studying the letters.

"Fourth Texas—hey? That your regiment?"

The Sergeant nodded, his lips tightened together.

But thought would not concentrate there, and there arose before him, as he lay there, the face of Lieutenant Gaskins, wearing the same expression of insolent superiority as when they had parted out yonder on the Santa Fe trail.

"The cowardly little fool," he muttered bitterly under his breath, gripping the window frame. "It will require more than his money to bring her happiness, and I'll never stand for that. Lord! She's too sensible ever to love him. Good God—what's that!"

It leaped out of the black night—three flashes, followed instantly by the sharp reports. Then a fourth—this time unmistakably a musket—darkened behind officers' row. In the glare, Hamlin thought he saw two black shadows running. A voice yelled excitedly: "Post Six! Post Six!"

With a single leap the Sergeant was across the sill, and dropped silently to the ground. Still blinded by the light he ran forward, jerking his revolver from the belt. As he passed the corner of the barracks the sentry fired again, the red flash cleaving the night in an instant's ghastly vividness. It revealed a woman shrieking against the yellow stone wall, lighted up her face, then plunged her again into obscurity.

SPEND FIFTY YEARS IN COUNTY TOGETHER

Mr. and Mrs. Z. C. Moore Who Celebrated Golden Wedding Recently Are Pioneer Residents.

Evansville, Jan. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Z. C. Moore of this city who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. H. A. Blakely, 345 Second street, on New Year's day, are pioneer residents of Rock county. They were married at the home of Mrs. Moore's uncle in West Magnolia by Justice of the Peace Whitney, Jan. 1, 1863, but both had lived in the state for several years previous.

Z. C. MOORE

The groom of fifty years was the son of William Moore of Germany and Phila Wright of Vermont, and was born in Fulton county, New York, Feb. 29, 1836. At young manhood he went to western New York, Erie county, and attended Clarence Hollow academy. After three years journeyed to Johnstown, Wis., and joined his old parents at farming. During the next three years they journeyed to West Magnolia, Wis., to their final home. Here he met Miss Fanny Rodd and three years later they were married. With a younger brother, Clinton, Zeba enlisted Feb. 2, 1865 in U. S. service at Janesville, as a private, under Capt. Leonard House and became a member of Wisconsin volunteers in Company L. He joined his regiment at Madison and went into camp Randall and thence to Nashville. He was honorably discharged July 10, 1865 at Louisville, Ky.

MRS. Z. C. MOORE

Mrs. Moore who previous to marriage was Frances Victoria Rodd the daughter of John Rodd of Prince Edward Island and Caroline Horn of Kent, England, was born Jan. 4, 1846 at Brackley Point Road, Prince Edward Island. At the age of eleven she went with her parents to Boston and came overland to Wisconsin, stopping at Janesville. Mr. Rodd bought a farm and saw mill at West Magnolia. He died three years later and his family lived with his elder brother, where Mrs. Moore's marriage was solemnized.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore remained on the farm until March, 1896, when he retired from active business and moved to Evansville.

Four of their six daughters were present at the golden wedding celebration. They were: Mrs. Phila M. Blakely, the hostess; Mrs. Caroline E. Schroeder of Marshall, Minnesota; Mrs. Edith A. Woodstock of Aston, and Miss Mae F. Moore of Beloit. The other two daughters, Mrs. Wealthie E. Ferris of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Zella D. Lindow of Philadelphia, Penn., were not able to be present.
